RE: FOIA Case No. 2019-FPRO-01354

Dear Mr. Welsh:

This responds to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request dated August 30, 2019, in which you seek access to Postal Service records. Specifically, you requested:

an electronic copy of all logos and illustrations of Mr. Zip, the U.S. Postal Service's cartoon representative for the ZIP Code, in SVG or EPS file format.

After contacting responsible persons from the Public Affairs and Communication Office, I was informed that these records are commercially sensitive, proprietary business information that the Postal Service does not disclose to the public and is therefore protected by FOIA Exemption 3 and 39 U.S.C. § 410(c)(2).

FOIA Exemption 3 provides that agencies may withhold records that are exempted from disclosure by another statute that "establishes particular criteria for withholding or refers to particular types of matters to be withheld." 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(3). We consider that 39 U.S.C. § 410(c)(2) operates independently as an exempting statute within the scope of Exemption 3.

Section 410(c)(2) of Title 39, U.S. Code, provides that "information of a commercial nature, including trade secrets, whether or not obtained from a person outside the Postal Service, which under good business practice would not be publicly disclosed" is exempt from the disclosure requirements of the FOIA. This section was enacted as part of the Postal Reorganization Act, 39 U.S.C. § 101 et seq., (1970), which established the Postal Service as an independent establishment of the executive branch and generally directed it to conduct its operations in accordance with sound business principles.

To determine what constitutes "good business practice" under § 410(c)(2), courts consider the customs of the commercial world, management techniques, and business law, as well as the standards of practice adhered to by large corporations. The Postal Service may withhold information of a commercial nature if large businesses would do the same. It would not be good business practice to release the requested information, and private businesses would not release information of this nature to the public. Disclosure of these records would reveal proprietary business information of the Postal Service.

If you are not satisfied with the response to this request, you may file an administrative appeal within 90 days of the date of this response letter by writing to the General Counsel Postal Service 475 L'Enfant Plaza SW Washington, DC 20260 or via email at FOIAAppeal@usps.gov. Your appeal must be postmarked or electronically transmitted within 90 days of the date of the response to your request. The letter of appeal should include, as applicable:
